

SCIENTIFIC JOB SEARCHES

REMINDER OF RESEARCHERS LABOUR RIGHTS

European foreign researchers can work in France, without a residence permit or work permit.

Regarding non-European foreign researchers):

- The “talent - chercheur” (or “scientifique-chercheur” for Algerians) residence permit is issued based on a hosting agreement with an approved research or higher education organization.
- The holder of a researcher residence permit carries out the missions linked to research and higher education described in their hosting agreement (“convention d’accueil”).
- The holder of a researcher residence permit can work without limitation on the number of hours thanks to their hosting agreement.
- Family members of the holder of a researcher residence permit benefit from a “talent - famille” (or “vie privée et familiale” for Algerians) residence permit which also grants extensive rights, including the possibility of working in France.

Renewal and duration: the researcher residence permit is generally valid for the duration of the hosting agreement and can be renewed depending on the duration of the projects.
